EARLY SETTLEMENTS

The beautiful agricultural town of Carmel is situated in the southern part of Penobscot county. It is six miles square, bounded on the north by Stetson and Levant, on the east by Hermon, on the south by Newburg, and on the west by Etna. It is drained by the tributaries of the Penobscot river, thus lying in the valley of that noble water course. The Sowadabscook stream is the outlet of Etna pond, situated in the northwestern corner of this town, and the northeastern corner of Etna. This stream crosses the town near the center, and furnishes the principal water power. Harvey stream is a branch of the Sowadabscook, uniting with that stream just below the village. The Kenduskeag flows near the eastern boundary of this town, and enters Hermon before uniting with the Sowadabscook, through which all these waters enter the Penobscot.

From the original copy of the agreement, contracted by Joseph Harvey for his deed of land, we learn that he purchased the land of Martin Kinsley of Hampden, who was the agent for the owner, Moses Gill, Esq., of Boston. From Penobscot County history we learn that the township was bought of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, March 2, 1795. The purchase was made by Hon. Martin Kinsley, presumably acting for Mr. Gill. It is very probable that Mr. Gill owned the whole township, number three, in range two, Mr. Kinsley acting as his agent. We find later that Mr. Kinsley was one of the tax payers in town, but he may have bought up the remaining land of Mr. Gill, after selling off many of the lots to the settlers, or he may have acted in his own name while he was agent for Mr. Gill. The statement has been made that Martin Kinsley was the original proprietor, but this was doubtless made because he did some of the writing in his own name, while acting as agent for the proprietor.

The original survey of this town, (a copy of which, made by Joseph Harvey, is in the possession of E. B. Harvey, and also the original copy of the land purchase mentioned above), was made, beginning at the northwest corner and the first tier of lots, twelve in number, lay along the northern border. Number 1, the northwest corner lot, included most of Etna pond in this town; number 12 was the northeast corner lot. There were six tiers of twelve lots each, the tiers running east and west, thus making the southwest corner lot number 61, and the southeast corner lot number 72. Thus it will be seen that there were 72 lots, with lots numbered 30, 31, 42 and 43 the center lots in the township. These lots were all bounded by straight lines, but no two of them contained the same area, the lines not running due north and south, or east and west. It will be seen that the average lot was 320 acres, but these ranged from about 290 to 350 acres each.

The first men to settle in this town were Paul and Abel Ruggles, brothers, who came from Hardwick, Mass., with their families. They remained a while, perhaps all winter, with a Mr. Garland, in Hermon, before arriving here. In May, 1798, they proceeded up the Sowadabscook in a dugout, and located on the lots numbered 56 and 57, which they had selected for their home, and purchased of Mr. Kinsley. They proceeded to build a saw and grist mill, after constructing their log cabins on the banks of the stream. Much of their early subsistance was fish, which were found in such abundance that they were caught in baskets. It is said that Daniel, the oldest son of Abel and Lucinda Ruggles, born Mar. 9, 1800, was the first white child born in this town. Rev. Paul was a Baptist preacher. He organized the first church here, and preached through the surrounding towns.

The next man to settle in town was Joseph Harvey, previously mentioned. The record mentioned is dated "Township, No. 3, on 2nd range, Sept. 19, 1799." The following year he moved to the lot now occupied by his grandson, Ernest Harvey, and began a clearing and built a cabin home. He built a saw and grist mill on Harvey stream, and sawed the lumber for his house built a few years later.

The first in the western part of the town, now known as Damascus, and perhaps the next to arrive after Mr. Harvey was Alexander Small. He came from Provincetown, now Truro, Mass., in 1800 or very soon after, and, like the other first arrivals, constructed saw and grist mills. Thus we see that at the opening of the century the township had three sawmills, one in the southeastern quarter of the town, one in the central, and one in the western part. The entire land surface was covered with excellent timber, much of it being pine, offering to home seekers the best inducements they could ask in a land where the soil is fertile and productive.

The next settlers, according to an account given by John Harvey, the son of Joseph Harvey, a short time before his death, were three brothers, Wilder, Calvin and Joseph Johnson, and their cousin, Seneca Johnson. Davis Merrill came from Hampden about 1812. He purchased lot No. 29, and built his house where Dr. Paul Ruggles afterwards built the house, now the home of Marietta Ruggles. Mr. Merrill was an early schoolmaster in town, and one of the leading citizens. Eben C. Hinckley settled on Hinckley Hill, on the southeast corner lot, in about 1807-8. He came from Barnstable, Mass., with his wife, Delia Hoxie Hinckley, whom he had married from Sandwich, Mass. Mr. Hinckley filled many of the town offices in the early days, and did a great deal to help the town in its infancy. He had nine children who grew up, four boys and five girls. Of the boys, John moved to Hermon, Lorenzo settled in Bangor, and Jesse and Charles in Carmel.

John Robinson settled in Damascus prior to 1810, on lot 26, Samuel Benson settled on lot 28, and Dea. Elijah Wilder on lot 40. Others of the settlers who arrived here previous to 1812 are shown in the following:

John Benjamin, the father of Dr. John P. Benjamin, came soon after 1812. He married the daughter of Samuel Benson. John D. Blagden came from Eddington to this section of the state, and finally settled in Damascus at an early date. John McPherson was another early arrival in that quarter of the town. Elisha Hopkins, and a Mr. Libby were others who arrived in town in its pioneer days. Israel Johnson did not come until around 1830, and John Fuller and the Emerys soon after.

Nathaniel Garland came from Winslow in 1833 and located in the southern part of the town. A few years ago the town purchased several acres of this farm, including the spot where Mr. Garland was buried, for a town cemetery. Many descendants of this family have become prominent citizens.

Most of these settlers have descendants now living in the town, but a few have become extinct, here, at least. To these hardy pioneers, many of whom are gratefully remembered by the oldest living citizens, is due much of the credit for the success which has followed the present generation, whose happy and comfortable homes dot the beautiful landscape, which the untiring labors of their fathers helped to redeem from an unbroken forest.

The village of Carmel, with its stately elms and beautiful maples, reminds the visitor of those early established towns scattered throughout Massachusetts, which awe one with their quiet grandeur and precision. The town pump, occupying the central square, calls to remembrance earlier days in our history, when these institutions of general usefulness were a common thing throughout the rural villages of the rural sections of New England.

INCORPORATION

The town of Carmel was incorporated June 21, 1811, previous to which it was known as Plantation No. 3, in the third range. The beautifully written and well preserved records of the town show that there were men of exceptionally good education for their times in this town. The records begin with the report of the meeting held March 2, 1812. We are unable to say whether this is the report of the first town meeting held in the town, as the charter had then been granted more than eight months. The residents assembled in the dwelling house of Samuel Benson, where this meeting was held, and elected the following town officers: Joseph Harvey, moderator; James Taylor, clerk; Joseph Harvey, Abel Ruggles and James Taylor, selectmen and assessors; Elijah Wilder, town treasurer; James Kimball, collector and constable; James Taylor and Isaac Boynton, tythingmen; Alex Small, Wilder Johnson, Elijah Wilder, Calvin Johnson and Abel Ruggles, fish wardens; Abel Ruggles and Calvin Johnson, surveyors of highways; Abel Ruggles and Elijah Wilder, surveyors and measurers of boards, plank, timber, etc.; Eben C. Hinckley and Samuel Benson, fence viewers; George Dunham and Daniel Emerson, hogreeves; Elijah Wilder, pound keeper; James Dunham and Eben C. Hinckley, field drivers; and Joseph Harvey, Esq., Samuel Benson and James Taylor, school committee.

At a meeting held the 6th day of the following April at the dwelling house of Abel Ruggles "for the purpose of giving in their votes for a Representative of the people of the Commonwealth, in the Congress of the United States of America, for the Kennebec District, and to give in their votes for governor, senator, lieut. gov. and counsellors, as required by the constitution of this Commonwealth." The number of votes "given in" for the Hon. Francis Carr for representative was 20; for "his Excellency" Elbridge Gerry for governor; Hon. William King, lieut. governor; and for senators and counsellors for Lincoln, Hancock and Washington Districts on one list, viz: Benj. J. Porter, Erastus Foote, William Webber, twenty votes were cast.

On the same day, at an afternoon session, a meeting for the transaction of town affairs was held at the same place. This was probably the first meeting for the raising of money for the support of the new town. Elijah Wilder was chosen moderator. The next vote was the appropriation of $150 for the support of schools. Then $700 for making and repairing roads. The vote was made that a pound should be erected near Mr. E. Wilder's spring. The final vote was that "three-quarters of the money, raised for making and repairing roads in this town, be laid out on the main road." This road was established the following May. It was laid out near where the Hampden road now runs, and connected at the Hamphen line with the road in that town. This was the first town road ever built in this town. People who wished to go to Bangor were then obliged to go to Hampden, then up the river road, but as Hampden was the larger place at that time that town was generally the destination of travelers in that direction. The next road was laid out and built from Samuel Benson's to Joseph Harvey's. This run north of the present Bangor road.

We give the foregoing facts from the records, for the purpose of comparison of conditions and customs in the town at that time and at the present. Much attention was given to laying out new roads, and as the population increased and new dwellings were erected, the place began gradually to take on the appearance of a thrifty farming and lumbering community.

At a meeting held in the Western schoolhouse July 26, 1819, the vote was given on the separation of the District of Maine from the Commonwealth of Massachusetts to form a separate and independent state. The vote registered at this meeting was fourteen in favor of separation and two against it.

The town house was built after the appropriation was made for that purpose, at the March meeting in 1855. In 1879 the Masons leased the upper story for a hall. This they have occupied since that time, and the building has been recently repaired so it is a very neat and comfortable, as well as centrally located place for holding these gatherings. The town hall is now fitted out with a stage, piano, and a dining room for public entertainments. At the last March meeting it was agreed to open the hall free to all public and private charity, or local benefit entertainments. Victor Chase is janitor.

The population of this township in 1810 was but 123. In 1820 it had increased to 153, and for the succeeding decades were as follows: 1830, 237;

1840, 520; 1850, 1,225; 1860, 1,273; 1870, 1,348; 1880, 1,220; 1890, 1,066; and in 1900, 962. The valuation of the town in 1812 was $948.50, and the tax rate 13 mills; in 1820 the estates were valued at $20,545; in 1860, $188,235; in 1880, $291,073 and in 1900, $293,202, with 286 polls.

The railroad was put through this town in 1855; six years later a station was built. The present station, which does not occupy the site of the first one, is very near the center of the town.

MILITARY ACCOUNT

The earliest military item we find in the records of this town is in the warrant issued Oct. 19, 1812. Article 1, reads as follows: "To see if the town will allow the selectmen's accompt for equipping John Turner, and providing for him on his march to Eastport." The action taken was that "James Taylor be allowed $4.25 for a blanket, and 24 cartridges delivered to John Turner." Two years later we find the record of the choosing of a committee of safety. Several of those living in this town were in the forces raised in Hampden under Gen. Blake, when that place was attacked by the British forces in 1814.

CIVIL WAR

At the breaking out of the civil war the town of Carmel was among the first to respond to the call of the president for 75,000 troops to put down the Southern rebellion. These men went into the field, filled with the thought that they were to fight against all odds for the preservation of the Union, and for the liberty of the race of men held in bondage because of their color, or because their mothers were slaves, and they were born to inherit a yoke of bondage. Too much praise cannot be given these men, who were willing to leave their happy and prosperous homes in the safe and secluded communities of New England and the North, to face the dangers and privations of the Southern battlefields. Many of these returned with glorious records of brave deeds performed in defence of the American flag, while many others were left in unmarked and almost unnumbered graves, on the fields where their blood was shed for this noble cause.

According to the Maine Adjutant General's reports there were 150 men furnished to fill her quotas in the Union Army. We give below a list of those who were credited to the town of Carmel. We are unable to make this list complete, but have compiled this list to the best of our ability from the records we have.

INDUSTRIAL ACCOUNT

There was a period in the earlier history of the town of Carmel, when its many water privileges were utilized to such an extent that the milling business might have been considered the principal occupation of its prosperous citizens. It is stated that there are as many as thirteen sites where saw or grist mills, carding mills, barrel factories, or some other kinds of manufactories, requiring power, have been located within the limits of this town.

A carding and clothing mill, owned by B. Robinson, was located on the Sowadabscook stream near the bridge, between the railroad station and the village, at one time gave employment to many hands, but this passed out of existence several years ago.

The first mill ever built and operated in the town was built by Paul and Abel Ruggles about 1799, on the Sowadabscook stream where Mr. Robinson's mill is now located, in the Ruggles neighborhood. This early mill was operated for many years by the Ruggles family, but at last it crumbled to decay or was burned. Not long after the building of the Ruggles mill, Joseph Harvey settled on the Harvey homestead, and built another saw and grist mill. This must have been very soon after his arrival in 1800. The mill was located near the bridge just north of the house. Near this, on the same stream, was also the site of the early tannery, built by the Weed brothers, Samuel and Benjamin, and operated by them for several years.

About the same time Mr. Harvey built his saw mill near his home. Alexander Small built the first saw mill in what is now known as Damascus, and like the other early millmen, he also had a grist mill as well as a saw mill. We are informed that his first mill was succeeded by another built by Alexander Small, Jr., and Alfred Friend on the same site. This mill in turn was torn down, and the present one, operated by Peleg Bradford & Son, was erected in its place. This mill is in operation about five months of the year, when nine hands are employed, and around 300,000 feet of lumber sawed. The grist mill now in operation at Damascus was built by George Chamberlain.

The mill previously referred to run by J. M. Robinson, was built in 1886 by Mr. Robinson, for the manufacture of shingles and sawing spool bars. Gradually as the spool timber became less abundant, the manufacture of long lumber was taken up in its place. The mill is not in constant operation, but does the custom work of the community.

The fact that there are valuable mineral deposits in the state of Maine, besides her iron ore, is incredible to many of her citizens. It is a fact that very few of the mines in the state have been developed to become paying property, yet it seems very probable that the time may come when many of the rocky farms, that are now considered of little value, may be those most sought. A deposit of antimony was discovered in this town about fifty years ago, on the farm now occupied by Mrs. Simonds. A shaft was sunk about fifty feet, but the method followed did not produce practical results. Recently the same party, after so long absence, has returned to reconsider the development of this project, which may yet be of value in the community.

The chief occupation of the citizens of this rural community is the cultivation of their farms. The land is very fertile and productive, and the farms here well repay the intelligent labor given to their cultivation. Many in the town have recently taken up the cultivation of potatoes for shipping, and last year there were 4,570 bushels, comprising 8 carloads, sent from Carmel depot to Boston, and there is a prospect that this branch of agriculture will be developed until these figures look small in comparison.

We would add that the water privileges of the town of Carmel offer great inducements to manufacturing enterprises, that do not require an immense volume of water. The Condensed Milk factory, now located at Newport, considered locating in this town, where there is an opportunity for an enterprising company to develop a paying business, in that or some other branch, that may have the co-operation of the citizens. On the Harvey stream there are two powers, situated on the Harvey farm, one on C. A. Shelden's farm, that would furnish sufficient power for a manufactory. Two of these have a ten foot fall and a good flow. On the Sowadabscook there are about six powers within the town, while there are but three of them now used. This stream is the outlet of Etna pond, which gives the advantage of the privilege of controling the water supply, and giving a steady power. We believe before many years this beautiful country town will be the scene of considerable business activity, and that her future will be a credit to the memory of the sturdy pioneers who first penetrated her unbroken forest depths.

CHURCH AFFAIRS

During the early days of the town there were many zealous men who were ready to go from two to five miles to hear a gospel sermon, and especially if this were of their own faith. But the people here showed a remarkable spirit of unity in their worship. We find that the Calvinist Baptist church was organized at a very early date by Rev. Paul Ruggles. This is said to have been the first Baptist church organized in this county; however that may be, we are certain it was the first and only church organization in this town for several years. In the year 1821 there were 36 members. Rev. Benjamin D. Small was the pastor of this society for many years but we are unable to say whether he was the direct successor of Mr. Ruggles.

There was a Free Baptist organization which was under the care of Rev. James Bladden in 1882 but this society has long been dormant.

The Union Meeting House situated at the village and the only church edifice in the town, was built by the combined effort of all church-loving people in the town. It was built by a stock company, and the stock, consisting of fifty shares, were taken by the following men: John Fuller, 3; Elisha Hopkins, 4; Jedediah Kimball, 1; Allen Eldridge, 3; B. T. Chapin, 1; N. D. Dawes, 2; Nathaniel Winslow, 2; Isaac A. Worcester, 1; Geo. W. Chamberlain, 3; W. N. Ames, 1; Leonard Newcomb, 1; John C. Allen, 1; Jonathan Pitcher, 1; David Fuller, 1; A. H. Briggs, 1; John McLogan, 2; John Barden, 1 1-2; Wilder Johnson, 1; Seneca Johnson, 2; Thos. Merrill, 1; Elias Dodge, 1; John Harvey, 2; Alonzo Tilton, 1; Chas. S. Getchell, 1; Hiram Ruggles, 1; Eben C. Hinckley, 1 1-2; James

S. Emery, 1; Isaac Winslow, 1; Geo. Dunham, 1; H. B. Norton, 1; Joel Nevins Jr., 1; James and Rufus Robinson, 1; Samuel Benson, 1; Thos. Robinson, 1; A. B. Tracy, 1. A. H. Briggs was the first president of the company and John Harvey, the first clerk. The company was called the Carmel Union Meeting House Corporation. The house was dedicated March 17, 1825, as a place of worship for all Evangelical denominations.

The times of meeting for the different societies were divided at first, we find, as follows: Universalists to occupy the house on Nov. 30, Methodists on Dec. 7, Baptists on Dec. 14, Congregationalists on Dec. 21, etc. Later the Advents held services. As the older generations have passed away the Baptists and Congregationalists discontinued their services. The Universalists frequently held services until a few years ago. Now the house is occupied almost entirely by the Methodists. The Universalists and Advents hold occasional services here.

As will be noticed the prominent men in the early town were nearly all connected with the church, and many of them have given it their liberal and hearty support.

The present officers of the Corporation are: E. L. Lamb, pres; C. K. Johnson, clerk; Lewis Robinson, C. L. Haines and S. S. Spratt, directors; Lewis Robinson, collector; E. L. Lamb, treas.;

and S. S. Spratt and Lewis Robinson, meeting-house committee.

SCHOOL ITEMS

The remarkable advance made in the matters of education is due, we believe, as much to the efforts and sacrifices of our fathers of one hundred years ago as to the cultivated brain of modern scholars. The first schools here were kept in the kitchens of private houses, or wherever it was most convenient, or rather, we might say, "least inconvenient" to hold them. In 1813, after the incorporation of the town we find in the records the entry that $400 was raised to construct school houses in the two districts, the Eastern and Western, but the following year it was agreed to expend the sum raised in repairing the old buildings used as school houses. Among those who were instructors in these schools were John Webster and James Taylor whose names we find on the treasurer's books for 1813, but it is probable that they taught a year or two earlier. Soon after this Betsey Webber taught in the Eastern district fourteen weeks for which she was paid the magnificent sum of $14. Asa Benson was a teacher in the Western district, and Levi Bradley in the Eastern or Ruggles district in 1813. David Patten, Clarissa Libby, Moses Manson, Lydia Hoxie, Romulus Haskins and young Paul Ruggles were other teachers in the east. Phineas Pillsbury taught in the "Middle district" when that was made about 1816. In the Western district Davis Merrill and Wm. Emery were early masters.

The first school house built in the village was erected about 1834, this was then the center district.

The growth of the schools kept in pace with the growth in population and their progress and development was a credit to those under whose care they have been. In 1844 there were eight school districts in the town. About this time the law once followed of electing "school agents" was introduced. This method was followed for some time until it was evident that it was not productive of the best results in the selection of teachers, or in the equality of advantages given to individual scholars.

Under the present system the care of the schools is constantly under the care of experienced and efficient officers who are better fitted to understand the wants and requirements of a progressive system of education. The schools are now under the excellent care of W. H. Corliss, supt. and a Superintending School Committee.

BUSINESS AND PROFESSIONAL MEN

TRADERS.

The first trading center in this town we are told was in the Ruggles neighborhood where it was supposed the future town should stand, but today most of the place has been swept by fire and there is little left to tell the tale of its former activity.

At the present village there was formerly a line of stores extending from Mr. Johnson's store toward the Sowadabscook Hotel. There was also a store near the town pump on the triangle. David and John Fuller were probably the first to open a store in this part of the town. Hon. Hiram Ruggles was in trade here during his activity and Israel Johnson, Capt. Allen Eldridge and D. C. Johnson are others who have served the public in this capacity at the village. A Co-operative store was run for some time, this was owned by local capital, and run by George Tozier. C. K. Johnson began trade here in 1866, and Lewis C. Whitten about 1880, both of whom have remained ever since they became established. In the early days there were two hotels here, one located where the St. Elmo now stands and the other where Mrs. Hopkins and Mrs. Winslow now live. We find in the records where Chauncy R. Blodgett and Horace Dwelley were licensed as taverners.

At Damascus James Emery was one of the earliest, if not the first trader; others were E. M. Johnson and Hiram Corliss. Those now in trade here are H. H. Wheeler and R. M. Simpson. The store at North Carmel was established by Mr. DeMerritt. George Nason is the present proprietor.

PHYSICIANS

The first resident doctor in the town was Paul Ruggles, born in 1801, son of Rev. Paul Ruggles, the first comer and preacher. The doctor was a graduate of Bowdoin college, 1832, and had studied with Dr. Barnard in Waterville. He practiced medicine here about 25 years and built the house now occupied by his daughter, Marietta. This house was built on the site of the old Davis Merrill house, and was the long home of the doctor who used to make his visits on horseback before there were any wagon roads in the town. His son, John, went to California in 1848 where he has become a prominent citizen of San Francisco. The next to settle here for the practice of medicine was Dr. John P. Benjamin who began practice in 1854 and remained for thirty years until his death in 1884. He was a graduate of Jefferson Medical college, Philadelphia. His son, John F. Benjamin, practiced here for a time, he is now located in Kenduskeag. Austin K. Harvey, the son of John Harvey, was also one of the earlier doctors here. Dr. Jones and Dr. Pickard were in practice here also. Dr. S. W. Otis came here previous to 1884 and has gained the respect and confidence of the townspeople during his long term of practice. Lewis Robinson Jr. is a successful physician now in practice.

LAWYERS

The list of members of the bar who have located here to practice their profession is not a long one. It is the thought of many of the older residents that their services are not in great demand. John J. Bell was probably the first professional lawyer in the town; he located here about the year 1850. Previous to this there were many Esquires, some of whom did much of the early writing for their townsmen. Of the last mentioned men were Josiah Kidder, Collings Howes, Oliver Beale, Otis Briggs, Abel Ruggles, J. Herrick, Israel Johnson, John Fuller, W. Emery, Wm. S. Walker, Daniel Emery and Ellis Friend, all of whom constituted marriages prior to 1840. Between 1840 and 1850 we find the names of the following Esquires who performed the marriage ceremony: Elathan Moseley, Oliver A. Taylor, Jas. S. Emery, Amasa Stetson, Hiram Ruggles and John Fogg. Daniel B. Farmer, a professional lawyer, located here for a short time. Arthur W. Price, son of Rev. J. W. Price, was the last. He was a bright young man of exceptional ability and promise but was taken away by death during the past year.

HON. HIRAM RUGGLES

The ambition and courage which led Paul and Abel Ruggles into this forest wilderness from their prosperous home in Massachusetts, and which remained with them until they had made for themselves a home and a name in their home of their adoption, was not confined to that generation. Of his sons the oldest who reached manhood was Dr. Paul, the first physician in Carmel; James, who settled in Calais where he became a prominent citizen previous to removing to Philadelphia, and Hon. Hiram, the man of public affairs. Hiram was born October 14, 1813, on the old homestead in Carmel, and was instructed in the ways of farming while a boy on the farm. He cultivated a farm of his own in town and became quite an extensive lumberman. He served his town as selectman and in other town offices for many years. In 1846 he was elected representative, and in 1850, county commissioner; this office he filled until he was elected senator in 1853. He was on the governor's council from 1863 to 1867 where his services were most invaluable during the last years of the war. In 1867 he became postmaster at Carmel and commissioner on the assumption of war debts. From Mar. 25, 1873, to July, 1877, he was collector of internal revenue for the Fourth District.

Mr. Ruggles became a member of the Methodist church in 1838 and became a liberal supporter of that denomination. He was a trustee and treasurer of the East Maine Conference Seminary for many years and was a liberal benefactor of that institution. He also made a large endowment to Wesleyan University at Middletown, Conn. He was a prominent member of the Masonic fraternity.

Mr. Ruggles remained a resident of Carmel until five or six years before his death when he moved to Bangor and resided on First street. He is buried in the Ruggles burying ground with his son, who was killed in the army during the Civil war and his daughter; their resting place is surmounted by a beautiful monument which marks the resting place of this noble life which the residents of Carmel and of the State hold in grateful remembrance.

HON. F. M. SIMPSON

Hon. F. M. Simpson was born in the town of Dixmont, November 26th, 1854, and is a son of Frederick A. and Harriet L. Simpson. He received his education in the common schools and the Maine Central Institute at Pittsfield. In 1868 he moved with his parents to Carmel, where they now reside. He served as clerk for his father—who was engaged in mercantile business at Simpson's Corner, Dixmont and at Carmel Village for over thirty-three years—until he reached the age of twenty-four years. At that time he bought out the stock and his father retired from business. He conducted the business alone until 1884, when he took in Mr. Lewis C. Whitten as partner, and the business was conducted under the firm name of Simpson & Whitten; and in 1893 he disposed of his interest in the firm to Mr. Whitten, and retired from mercantile business. In 1900 he moved to Bangor and in 1901 puchased a house on the corner of Cedar and Fourth streets in that city, where he now resides. In 1872 he was commissioned a Trial Justice for Penobscot County and served in that position for fourteen years. In politics he has always been an active member of the Republican party. He served six years as town clerk, two years as collector of taxes and three years as chairman of the board of selectmen of Carmel, He was a member of the Republican county committee for Penobscot County for two years and served as chairman of the Republican town committee of Carmel for sixteen years. In 1898 he was elected a member of the Republican State committee and in 1900 he was unanimously elected chairman of that committee and has held the position to the present time. In 1884 he was elected a representative from the class consisting of the towns of Carmel, Levant, Stetson and Kenduskeag and he served as State senator from his county for the years 1888-89-90-91. During his services in the legislature he served as chairman of the committee on Interior Waters and Indian Affairs, and was a member of the committee on Financial Affairs, Banks and Banking, State Prison, Ways and Bridges and Public Buildings. He was postmaster of Carmel during the Harrison Administration and was a member of the Executive Council of Gov. Burleigh for the years 1891-92, and of Gov. Cleaves' Council for the years 1893-94. At the organization of the Council of Gov. Cleaves he was unanimously elected Chairman of the Council for two years. At the session of the Legislature in 1890 he was elected Treasurer of the State of Maine and re-elected at each of the two following sessions of the Legislature, serving for six years, the limit of service prescribed by the Constitution of the State. At the expiration of his term of office as State Treasurer in 1901 he was elected by the Legislature a member of the Board of State Assessors, and is serving in that capacity at the present time. He is Treasurer and Director of the American Realty

Co., with its business office in Bangor, Treasurer of the Androscoggin Log Driving Co., and Trustee of the Rumford Falls Trust Co., Rumford Falls, Maine. In 1884 he married Mary Linnie Benjamin, daughter of Dr. John B. and Mary A. Benjamin of Carmel, and has one child, Frederick B., born June 19th, 1889.

Hermon Register

EARLY SETTLEMENTS

The town of Hermon, like Carmel, is six miles square. It is bounded north by Levant and Glenburn, east by the city of Bangor, south by Hampden, and west by Carmel. Hermon Pond, situated in the south-west corner of the town is the principal body of water within the town limits, and it was around this beautiful sheet of water that the first settlers made their clearings. The Kenduskeag stream is the principal water course except the Sowadabscook, which enters and flows from Hermon Pond.

According to information received from Mr. Ernest M. Sylvester of Bangor, a descendant of the Swan family, who has obtained his account from his grandfather and other members of the family, Gustavues Swan came to Hermon about the time of the American Revolution. He was an English seafaring man who visited this country in the latter part of the 18th century with his three sons, Gustavues Jr., John and Jaremiah. They first settled in Hartford, Conn., but soon came to Hampden, Maine, and shortly after came to Hermon and settled near the pond. Mr. Sylvester states that his grandfather said they were raising the old house on the Swan farm on the dark day, which was in May, 1783, and that they had to stop work for several hours because of the darkness. It is said that the Swan brothers lived in a log house for a year before building the frame house above mentioned, which places the date of their arrival here in 1782. Little is known about Gustavues Sr., as the name was then spelled, but it is supposed that he was lost at sea. John Swan is buried in the cemetery near Hermon Pond. Jaremiah, who settled in the Read district, is buried at North Hermon. Gustavus Jr. moved to Arguyle.

Julius Hewes to whom has generally been accorded the honor of having been the first to settle in town, was probably the next to arrive. He came to Hampden when about four years old, having been born in Boston July 7, 1767, and was about 21 when he settled in Hermon, near the pond which for a time was known as Hewes Pond, but now Hermon Pond. He had a family of thirteen children, one of whom, Rosana, born Sept.

22, 1813, married a Mr. Kimball and is now living at the advanced age of 91, now an active woman. The following Petition was signed, doubtless by all who had located in the town prior to 1794. Many of these came from New Hampshire.

To the Honorable Senate and House of Representatives, in General Court Assembled:

The petition of inhabitants and settlers on Township No. 2 in the 2d Range west of Penobscot river, humbly sheweth, that your petitioners are now residing on land in the aforesaid Township; and was taken up and improved, on and before January, in the year of our Lord, 1784, and the interest of your petitioners wholly depends on our possessions or improvements. Your petitioners humbly pray that an hundred acres of land may be granted to each of your petitioners' names, as is set forth in the following plan; and that a committee may be appointed, where applications may be made for deeds by paying the money for each hundred acres of land so assigned to each of your petitioners and your petitioners as in duty bound shall ever pray.

Township No. 2 in the Second Range, 7th of November, 1795.

John Miller came here from Hampden and located on the hill which took his name. He first built a camp. Later he built a frame house on the top of the hill. The large old house now standing on the hill was the second frame house built by him, and the first house moved to form the ell, both of which are still standing. This ell is doubtless the oldest house now standing in the town. Mr. Miller used to carry his corn to Hampden on his back, traveling by spotted line through the thick cedar swamp which stood where the Corner village now stands. He was a lumberman, a river driver for 26 years on the Penobscot and an officer in the Battle of Hampden in the war of 1812.

Another of the first arrivals was Ralph Annis who located on Miller Hill, also Joel Read came to the hill which took his name, at an early date. Thomas Kimball is said to have put up the first frame house in the vicinity of the Corner.

Others of the early settlers, and the places they located on were: Alva Patten, where Mr. Royal lives; Eben Taylor, where his son now is; James Johnson, near Mr. Taylor's; Alanson Grant, on lot now Judson Wentworth's home; Gideon Andrews, place now occupied by his son; Richard Patten, south of Mr. Andrew's; Eleazar Webber, farm now owned by Frank Simpson; Peter Guptil, where Hermon Pond depot now stands; Chas. H. Tuesley, near the old pound.

INCORPORATION

The town of Hermon was incorporated in the year 1814, June 13th. We find no copy of the act of incorporation but give the following extracts from the town records beginning with the Justice's summons for the call of the first meeting.

To Collings Howes inhabitant of the town of Hermon in the county of Hancock. Greeting:

You are hereby required in the name of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts to summons and notify the freeholders and other inhabitants of said town qualified by law to voate in town meeting, viz: such as pay to one single tax besides the poll or pols a sum equal to two-thirds of a single pole tax. To assemble at John Swan's dwelling house in said Hermon on the 23d day of March instant (1815) at one of the clock in afternoon to act on the following articles, viz: nine articles follow all for the choice of town officers.

Signed and dated March 9th, 1815,

JOSIAH KIDDER, Justice of the Peace.

At the first town meeting thus called which was held on March 23, 1815, John Patten was chosen moderator; then Collings Howes, town clerk; and Collings Howes, John Patten and Julius Hewes, selectmen and assessors; Elisha C. Grant, constable and collector of taxes (collection at 4 1-2 per cent); Collings Hewes, town treasurer; John Swan, Andrew Perry, Elisha C. Grant, John Wiley, Benjamin Clerks, highways surveyors; Isaac Webber, Stephen Emerson, Andrew Pomroy, school committee, District No. 2; Joseph Pomroy, Jeremiah Swan, Elisha C. Grant, school committee, District No. 3; William Patten, John Patten, Peter Guptil, school committee, District No. 1; William Kasey, Josiah Hopkins, John Hopkins, school committee, District No. 4; John Swan, Isaac Webber, Nathaniel Garland, Benjamin Clerk, fence viewers; Stephen Emerson, Benjamin Hopkins, William Waterman, John Miller, hog reves; John Swan, Joseph Pomroy Jr., and Seth Thompson, tithingmen. "Voted that horses shant run in the commons without fetters." Voted to "take up rum" from Aug. 10 to Dec. 20.

At the state election meeting, held on April 3, 1815, to cast their first votes for Governor and other state officers. For Governor, Hon. Samuel Dexter received 20 votes; for Lieut. Governor, William Gray, 21; for Senators, William D. Williamson, James Camble, Mark L. Hill, 21 each; for Representative, James Carr, 21; for county treasurer, Bradshaw Hall, 21; this does not represent the total number of polls in town but "those qualified by law" as given in the first warrant.

Voted $100 for schools, $800 for highways, $40 for town expenses. "Voted to have a spot of ground for a pound at Mr. John Swan's Brook south of his dwelling house."

At the next meeting, May 26, 1815, the settlers agreed to accept as town roads, and to enter them in the town records, all roads laid out while this town was a plantation. John Swan was instructed to build the pound from the road money, and to act as pound keeper. Much attention was given to laying out roads during these days, and comparatively large sums raised for that purpose.

At the March meeting 1816, the principal officers chosen were William Patten, moderator; Collings Howes, William Patten and John Swan, selectmen and assessors; Elisha C. Grant bid off the collection of taxes at 5 per cent.; E. C. Grant, constable; and Collings Howes, treasurers.

This year it was voted "to keep all thisels down from going to seed on every man's land, or on land under his own improvement and care, under the penalty and forfeiture of twenty dollars." At the same meeting fish wardens were appointed for the following year.

In 1819 Francis Jennis was elected town clerk to succeed Collings Howes who had served up to that time. These early town meetings were held at the dwelling houses of the settlers until after the construction of the school house in district No.

1, in 1819. The town hall was erected around 1850. In 1874 this was enlarged and raised by the Masons for the addition of their hall which occupies the second story of the building.

On the same lot stands the Odd Fellows hall, built in 1890. This is 55 feet long, 30 feet, 4 inches wide, and 20 foot posts. There are two halls in the building, that above being used for the Odd Fellows Hall and for the Rebekahs, both of which have organizations in town. The hall below is used for public entertainments and dancing.

The population of Hermon in 1800 was 82; in 1810, 179; in 1820, 277; 1830, 535; 1840, 1042; 1850, 1374; 1860, 1432; 1870, 1489; 1890, 1282 and in 1900, 1183. The valuation in 1812 was $9,229.02; eight years later it had increased to $22,056. In 1860 it was $197,120; in 1880, $399,999 and in 1900, $361,-142. The number of polls here in 1812 was 33. In 1833 there were 146 legal voters; in 1903 the number of polls found was 349.

MILITARY MATTERS

The military account of this town begins with the war of 1812, although a few of its pioneers were veterans of the Revolution. Many of the citizens here were in the army during the second war with Great Britain, and took part in the Hampden battle. Among these were John Miller who served as an officer and P. Handerson.

In the war of the Rebellion the part taken by the citizens of this town was a credit to the fathers who fought in the earlier engagements, and a glory to the men who so nobly went to the front to fight and die, if need be, for the union of the nation, and the liberty of the slave.

The following list we have compiled from the Adjutant General's reports of the enlistments in Maine. The list is incomplete but we have compiled it to the best of our ability from the records in our posession.

Benjamin Additon, Sanford Annis, J. P. Annis, Gideon Andrews Jr., Simon Annis Jr., C. F. Barrett, M. C. Burgess, H. L. Barrett, Geo. Brackett, Albert Bryant, J. C. Bowen, Lafayette Brown, D. W. SOLDIERS' MONUMENT

The beautiful granite monument standing in the village square, erected to the men who enlisted from this town, is a loyal tribute to these noble men. To the Dan'l Chaplin W. R. C. is due the credit of erecting the monument; they collected money for the purpose for nearly five years, when, in 1901 the town appropriated the sum of $500 for its erection, and it was placed where it now stands the same year. Total cost of monument and grading $905.88.

INDUSTRIAL ACCOUNT

The industrial history of Hermon has not been varied by the advent of any important manufacturing or business enterprises. In the early days of the town there were saw mills located on the Kenduskeag stream at Snow's Corner, and at one time a steam saw mill at the Center, but these are now passed away and the industry which claims the attention of this thrifty community is the pursuit of agriculture. This is carried on in all its varied branches, much attention being given to the care of stock and milch cows; of the latter the town can boast some of the best specimens in the county, although few of the farmers are given to the care of fancy stock.

The soil of this town is generally fertile and productive. A good deal of hay is shipped from the railroad station for the Boston market. Good crops of yellow corn and potatoes as well as oats, barley and mixed grain are produced each year.

Soon after 1820, Chas. Tuesley began making brick near the old pound, and did quite an extensive business, supplying the demands of the surrounding vicinity.

The picnic grounds located on the shore of Hermon Pond were established by Geo. W. Hopkins, and later, about 1883 the buildings were built over and enlarged. Good fishing of perch, pickerel and bass is had in the pond, and the grounds are much used by parties from out of town as well as by local parties. Mr. C. W. Netz is proprietor.

CHURCH AFFAIRS

Those men who penetrated the uncultivated and uninhabited lands of this section of the state showed their deep trust in the Creator, but this was not the only way in which they demonstrated their faith in God. Although they had no magnificent temples in which to worship they often assembled in their dwelling houses, or in schoolhouses where they returned thanks to the Giver of all Good.

The first church building of which we have found record was the Universalist meeting house, built in 1848 by Rev. William Patten, who was the first pastor to fill its pulpit. This society was very active for some time. Rev. Mr. Case was the pastor for many years. Rev. Armory Battles and Rev. E. E. Peck were also pastors of this church. As its supporters died off or moved out of town the active members became few, and in 1900 the edifice was presented to the local Grange which has repaired and remodeled it somewhat. It still stands on the old spot, a monument to the devotion of a God fearing generation.

CHRISTIAN CHURCH

In 1860 Ephraim Drew held a reformation in this place. On October 15, the Christian Church was organized by S. S. Nason. Article I of their constitution read as follows: "We take the New Testament as our only rule of faith and practice." This church was organized on Read Hill in the district schoolhouse. It was not until 1892 that the church was erected at the village on a lot given by Mrs. Luce, whose husband, George F. Luce, had willed the society $320 for the edifice. It was dedicated on Oct. 4, by Rev. Joshua House of Corinna. The church is open to all evangelical denominations.

Rev. S. S. Nason was pastor until 1864; he was succeeded by Rev. Mr. Gowin who remained until 1869, then Elder Otis, 1869 to 1872. Regular monthly conferences were held. Others who have been employed to minister to the society, were: Revs. Jacob Durgin, Ephraim Drew, Timothy Humphrey, Charles E. Hewes, who has done a great deal for the church. Rev. Jos. Grindall of Bangor preached from March 1897 for one year, Rev. S. H. McKeen, 1898 to 1900, Stacy Burrill and Rufus Bartlett were among the last. Many others have held services here, but not regularly.

At the present time Oscar Overlock, an Advent preacher, preaches every fourth Sabbath, but the services are undenominational.

The church society became incorporated May 9, 1891, before the erection of the church, with C. E. Hewes, clerk; Dan'l Emerson, treas., F. L. Taylor and Dan'l Emerson, deacons; and C. E. Hewes, Dan'l Emerson, Mary Johnson, Mary Clements and Hannah Luce, business committee. Eben H. Clement is the present clerk. Now the society has decreased until there are but about half a dozen of the members left. The organ was purchased by subscription in 1898.

FREEWILL BAPTIST

The Freewill Baptist church was organized March 13, 1869, with G. D. Higgins, J. G. Eaton, James Taylor, Chas. H. W. Teusley, Mary Swan, Zeruiah Taylor, Hepsibah D. Higgins and Florence Goss, charter members. J. G. Eaton was chosen clerk and G. D. Higgins deacon. They voted to become members of the Exeter quarterly meeting.

G. D. Garland was the first pastor of the society, and the services were held in the town house or schoolhouse at the village. Preaching services were held only every fourth Sunday.

N. F. Weymouth was chosen to act as pastor in July following and served for about a year. A Sunday school of from 30 to 40 members was organized in March 1871. Other preachers who have officiated here, most of whom were settled as regular pastors, were: Rev. F. C. Bradeen, Rev. A. W. Reed, Deacon Higgins, Rev. S. C. Whitcomb, who removed to Dover in 1875; for a period supplies filled the pulpit, most of these were from the Bangor Theological School; Mr. Robbins, Rev. John Banks, Rev. J. Bean. Otes P. Frost took the charge about 1890 and remained six years, when he resigned, but soon after returned and remained until 1903, when he again resigned and removed to Hampden, his present home. Mr. White, a Seminary student, succeeded him for a short time. Arthur Black of Bangor is the present pastor. Services are regularly held and the general condition of the church is prosperous. There are 17 members, a good attendance at the services, and much interest taken in their support.

The church was built in 1870. The choir gallery has recently been removed from the end of the church opposite the pulpit, and arranged according to the modern custom. The bell was hung about two years ago; this was the munificent gift of Mr. Lorenzo Peabody. The organ was bought last year. Linda M. Pickard is the present clerk; May Taylor, treasurer.

ADVENT CHAPEL

The Advent chapel situated at North Hermon was built about 1845. The early leaders in this church were Geo. Brackett, John Brackett, William Clark, Mr. Phillips, Mr. Dore, Cyrus Tibbetts, and others. This house of worship was the scene of many stirring gatherings for years, until it finally fell into disuse. About three years ago interest was again revived in this locality, and a religious society was formed of the people of North Hermon, mostly Advents, and by their untiring efforts they have thoroughly repaired the old structure and opened it as a free church.

SCHOOL ITEMS

The schools of this town have been well supported by the taxpayers, and by those who have had the matter of their direction and management in their keeping. Before the incorporation of the town the schools were kept in kitchens and paid for by private subscription, or agreement. One of the earliest teachers here was Hepsibah Dempsie Gilpatrick. At the first town meeting for the transaction of town affairs $100 was raised for schools. There were then four districts in the town, as shown by the records. In 1816 these were rearranged so there were but three, and an appropriation made for the construction of three schoolhouses ($600); this vote, however, was rescinded the following March. In 1819 the inhabitants of district No. 1 held a meeting and agreed to erect a schoolhouse in their district, 22 by 20 feet, 8 ft post, with square roof, shingled on one side, and clapboarded on the other side and end, the chimney to be of stone to the mantle-piece, then finished with brick. For this they raised $200, and the building was to be ready for the following winter. This action was followed two years later by the residents of district No. 2.

The amounts raised for the support of schools has materially increased from time to time, and the growing demands of education liberally provided for. In 1833 there were 328 scholars in the town, classified in seven schools; in 1850 the number of school districts had increased to twelve; at the present time there are fourteen. The appropriations made last spring for the support of education was, for common schools, $1150; school books, $150; repair of houses, $200; and for apparatus and appliances, $150. Also $200 was raised for a free high school, making the total amount raised for the support of these institutions $1,850. In Schools 4 and 9 School Improvement

Leagues have been organized by the teachers. Last year High School was taught by the superintendent, Mr. Harding, who is a man of long and successful record as an educator. The number of students enrolled for the term was 26, with an average attendance of 23; there were 13 of these who did not miss a half day during the term. These figures show the remarkable interest Mr. Harding instills in his pupils in the work of the school.

TRADERS

Who the first to open a store, for the sale of the "necessities of life", rum, molasses and codfish, was we are unable to say. The first of whom we have learned were Warren & Burnett, perhaps they were the earliest. Gen. Hersey was the next in trade at the village. John Hinckley and John Miller each kept tavern at the Corner, at which time there were four stores and two blacksmith shops in operation there. Others of the early traders were Wm. and Daniel Hewes, Julius Hewes, J. G. & N. D. Eaton, and Benj. Swett. In the store just moved from the northeast lot at the corner John Kimball, Geo. W. Moore and Geo. F. Moore traded in succession. Geo. F. Moore moved to the store now occupied by Thurston Hunt, to whom he sold about seven years ago. This store, which has been built about sixty years, is now the only one left at the Corner.

At North Hermon, or Snow's Corner, Frank A. Bishop has operated a general store for several years.

PHYSICIANS

The earliest professional doctor of whom we have learned was Dr. Chas. H. Cates. Most of the ills of the hardy generation of a century ago were treated by the careful mothers and those skilled in the use of herbs, by whose simple remedies the more common diseases and ailments were cured. S. W. Otis was another physician who located here. F. P. Whitaker, who is now practicing in the place, has remained here for many years and has a very successful practice. Dr. H. J. Webber has been in practice here for a comparatively short time, but has gained the coveted place in the hearts of the people.

LAWYERS

No members of the bar have ever been located in this town for the practice of their profession.

Hon. Hannibal Hamlin of Hampden did much of the early legal business for the settlers, and William Potter, Esq., drew up some legal documents. It is the general opinion of the residents of the town that legal advice at Bangor is handy enough for their needs.

Census, 1904.

The population of the towns of Carmel and Hermon has been arranged herewith in families where that arrangement has been possible. In these families, in addition to the resident living members, the names of the non-resident members are included. It should be borne in mind that this plan does not include the names of all former residents of this town, as the names of the non-residents appear only when one or both the parents are still living in the town. At the end of the Census will be found the names of non-residents with their present addresses, when such addresses have been given to us. The non-residents are indicated by the (*).

Following the names of the population is the occupation To designate the occupations we have used the more common abbreviations and contractions. Some of these follow: Farmer —far; carpenter—car; railroad service—R R ser; student, a member of an advanced institution of learning—stu; pupil, a member of a lower grade of schools—pl; housework—ho; laborer —lab; physician and surgeon—phy & sur; clergyman—clerg; merchant—mer; teacher—tr; blacksmith—blk: clerk—cl; bookkeeper—bk kpr; lawyer—law; mechanic—mech; engineer—eng; insurance—ins; maker—mkr; worker—w'kr; work—wk; shoe shop work—s s work.

BIOGRAPHICAL SKETCH OF AN EARLY SETTLER OF CARMEL, 1781-1859.

Eben Cobb Hinckley was born in Barnstable, Mass., March 20, 1781. He was a lineal descendant of the last colonial governor of Plymouth, Mass. On January 8, 1805, he was married to Deliverance Hoxie of Sandwich, Mass., whose Hoxie ancestor emigrated to Cape Cod in 1635.

Mr. Hinckley came to Carmel the following spring, on a sailing vessel as far as Hampden. From thence the family goods were carried by woodroad, on an ox-sled, to the neighborhood of the farm he had bought (100 acres, more or less, price $400). He immediately built a two-storied frame house, on what is known to-day as Hinckley Hill.

This new home became a source of pecuniary aid, systematically given to important reforms and movements to the church.

His neighbor, the abolitionist, and the Washingtonian, were encouraged by example and precept.

He was always a subscriber to newspapers.

Mr. Hinckley was a carpenter, as well as a model farmer. Among his farm buildings was a well equipped carpenter's shop, where his sons learned to make beautifully fitted pieces of furniture, now carefully kept by their children.

Mr. Hinckley was the father of five sons and five daughters. The surviving daughters are residents of Carmel: Caroline Hoxie Day, widow of John M. Day, Lydia Hoxie Ruggles, widow of Hon. Hiram Ruggles; and Rebecca Ann Robinson, widow of Crosby Mayo and of Benjamin Robinson.

No son survives; one grandson, Charles C. Day, and one granddaughter, Miss Alice Crosby Mayo, only child of Mrs. Robinson, reside in Carmel. Mrs. Day has two other sons and a widowed daughter in Boston, Mass. Mrs. Ruggles has no descendants. Her only son was killed in the War of the Rebellion.

The daughters of John Hoxie Hinckley live in Bath, Maine and in Dorchester, Mass. The only issue of the subject of our sketch, bearing the family name are two surviving sons of Captain Lorenzo Hinckley, of Bangor, (wife Sarah A. Mayo); John Hoxie Hinckley, Boston, Mass., and Lewis Elmer Carlton Hinckley, Denver, Colorado, and Miss Hannah Nye Hinckley, of Dorchester, Mass., daughter of John Hoxie Hinckley.

I have been young, and now am old; yet have I not seen the righteous forsaken, nor his seed begging bread.—Psalms 37:25.

FLORA E. HAINES, Daughter of Lorenzo Hinckley.

Bangor, Sept. 28, 1904.
